Making MTD feel manageable

Before using Sage Sole Trader, the introduction of Making Tax Digital (MTD) was a concern.

The thought of submitting information to HMRC every three months felt daunting.

After the first few weeks of using the software, the process became much easier to manage.

Advice for other sole traders

For sole traders who still rely on manual processes, Oak Sure Construction has simple advice: give it a go.

Keeping records up to date daily or weekly can save time and help make managing tax responsibilities less stressful.

Building for the future

Oak Sure Construction plans to continue growing year on year.

By reducing the time spent on paperwork and helping keep records organised, Sage Sole Trader supports the business as it looks ahead to the next stage of growth.

Staying on top of the admin

Running a construction business means more than completing work on site.

Oak Sure Construction also needs to make sure materials are available when needed, respond to potential customers quickly, prepare quotes, and keep on top of paperwork.

Easy from day one

Getting started with Sage Sole Trader was straightforward.

The business wanted software that could help organise records without adding complexity, and found the setup and day-to-day use easy to manage.

A record of every transaction

One of the most-used features is logging what each transaction is for.

Keeping records updated as transactions happen helps Oak Sure Construction stay organised and spend less time dealing with paperwork later.
